

Appendix IV:

Introduction to "Elite Group"

"Elite Group" is based on Tencent Lexiang. It is an online community targeting Rhino-Bird elite students, in which users need to register with their real names. Tencent Lexiang is a corporate cloud product based on Tencent's best knowledge management practice. At Tencent, sharing and learning have become an integral part of employees' work life. As many as 60% of employees take the initiative to log into knowledge management platforms on a daily basis, generating over 400 pieces of articles sharing knowledge. Employees use the platform to review work-related files, inquire experts about product's technological challenges and discuss new product ideas with co-workers.

Students who qualify for the program will have online access to the Elite Group. It provides the latest technical papers in various fields, knowledge about research, opportunity to take part in the Rhino-Bird intellectual study and intellectual sharing activities, share thoughts and research achievements in the joint training, and exchange goals with students who qualified for the program in previous years.

Here, you can make scientific research friends and partners, gain technical knowledge of scientific research, and communicate with leading scholars. What are you waiting for?
